National e-Learning Offer

Introduction

e-Sgoil is Scotland's national e-Learning service. Established in 2016 by Comhairle nan Eilean Siar, the service quickly grew to deliver live online teaching and learning to children and young people all across Scotland using a bank of teachers employed directly and a network of trusted Partners.

We are pleased to offer a range of full-year, certificated courses that learners anywhere in Scotland can access. These courses are taught via live, online lessons by either e-Sgoil's GTCS registered teachers, further education lecturers or other approved educators e.g. accredited training officers who deliver Foundation Apprenticeships.

The aim of the offer is to help schools create personal pathways for their young people, making courses available where they otherwise wouldn't be, either due to small numbers, lack of local subject-area expertise or both. It is intended that this offer can sit alongside the school's in-house option choices, to be considered along with other timetabled courses.

Tuesday and Thursday afternoons are the times that align with the greatest number of local authorities' timetable models. Even if the proposed timing does not suit your circumstances, we welcome expressions of interest and ask that you indicate a time that would work for you in order that we can consider other viable cohorts.

FAQs

How will the courses be timetabled?

Tuesday and Thursday afternoons are the times that align with the greatest number of local authorities' timetable models. Even if the proposed timing does not suit your circumstances, we welcome expressions of interest and ask that you indicate a time that would work for you in order that we can consider other viable cohorts.

How big will the classes be?

There will be different minimum class sizes depending on the viability constraints for each course. Maximum class sizes will be determined to ensure that the required level of interactivity and access to the teacher can be achieved. It is important that a good quality learning experience is created for all participants. No classes will have more than 30 learners.

What are the course fees?

Costs to schools vary from programme to programme – please see the Costs section of the table on page 4.

All coordination, advertising and IT support for delivery of live lessons via MS Teams in Glow is provided by e-Sgoil as part of the Scottish Government funded National e-Learning Offer.

Are course fees refundable if a learner withdraws?

We understand that learners' subject choices may change subject to exam results. The following policy will apply:

Withdrawal on or before 25th August - 100% refund

Withdrawal after 25th August - 100% refund if an alternative candidate can be identified

What equipment do learners require?

PC, laptop or other suitable device with a keyboard and camera.

A headset with microphone is recommended to ensure the best quality audio experience for everyone.

(For schools) What happens to the Insight Tariff Points?

For all courses, Insight tariff points will be accrued by the learner's school, even if it is not the presenting centre.

Role of the learner

Role of the learner's own school/supporting teacher

Schools are expected to support learners to fully engage with the online lessons and provide a point of contact to discuss progress and any difficulties that arise. They should ensure that learners have suitable IT equipment, internet connection and a space in the school to allow them to attend and participate in the lessons without undue distraction. It is for the school to determine what, if any, supervision the learner requires while participating.
